Volturno Commander Says Criticisms Are Not Justified.

ARRIVES IN NEW YORK AND TALKS

Declares the Captain of the Carmania Did Everything That Could Have Been Expected of Him-No Panic On Board the Volturno During the Fire-Life Belts and Boats In Good Condition and Crew Obedient.

New York, Oct. 17.-Captain Franeis Inch received a delegation of hewspaper correspondents in the smoking room of the Kroonland, as the North German Lloyd liner slowly made her way up the bay. The rush of newgatherers did not feaze the little captain a particle. Inch is, if anything, under the average height. He is slightly built.

The captain spoke with a slight English accent and told his story without much questioning.

"I want to say first," said the captain, "that the Carmania behaved splendidly. Apparently there has been some criticism of Captain Barr and the tactics he used. Those criticisms were not justified. Captain Barr did everything that could have been expected of him. He had a big ship to handle in such a sea, but he came close to us once or twice and he made every effort to lower boats when he first came. He succeeded in getting one boat into the sea, but it had to

"Again, I want to emphasize that there was not the vestige of a panic. Any man with common sense must realize that 500 emigrants, unused to the sea, to storms, to fire, were frightened. The women cried a good deal. After some of the explosions they screamed. The men were nervous and prowled about the after decks, but at no time did they make wild vocating compulsory voting Secretary knock down women or injure chil-

Henry Scharp, of Snohomish, Wash., writes: "My wife has suffered with eczema for a number of years and has used most every remedy ever mentioned to her. It is certainly a boon to anyone suffering from Eczema."

Saxo Salve allays the itching almost as soon as applied. Avoid Details is there anything on earth more tiresome in conversation than details? Is there any person on earth more wearing than the one who goes into the most minute detail, who leaves nothing to one's sense or imagination and often gives particulars absolutely devoid of interest?

It's bad enough to have to hear of the ills of life-of John's long seige of lumbago, of Jane's neuralgia, of Tommy's cut finger, but when every pain is located and dilated upon its a The rarest of beauty I'll grant you, double dose that's hard to swallow.

It's good news to hear that a friend has fallen heir to a fortune, but when every detail of the circumstances connected Till all of the maples were longing with his good luck has been gone over again and again its so wearisome that you wish he's travel on his fortune.

It's maddening to have a little misunderstanding, which a few words would entirely clear away, and then be compelled to listen to detailed explanation of the whys and wherefores until you wish you had never "made up."

The handing out of stupid details is largely habit. It's one of the arts of a good conversationalist to be able to tell the interesting things concisely and not weight them down with a burden of stupid details.

And first cousin to the man of detail is the literal man. He's the man who spoils a good story by stopping the storyteller in the middle of it to tell him it was five minutes before instead of five minutes after six o'clock when the incident hap-

New York's Two-fisted Priest

Strange as it seems the man who has had more fights and Friday; Saturday showers and coolhas "licked" more persons in the last six years than any other er in east portion man in New York is not a prize-fighter nor a bully or even a policeman, according to a writer in the New York Press.

He is a priest of the Catholic church—Rev. Phillip J. Mc-Grath of St. Peters Union Mission for Seamen.

Father McGrath is not a fighter from inclination. He has found that the water-front people are not the kind that can be gently talked into being good. He explains it: "As long as Saturday probably fair; brisk and He explains he made $180 a month they know I am master here they will be good and being good probably high northeast winds. will become a habit with them."

Of course, much of Father McGrath's work is accomplished without fighting, but the fights seem to be included in his labors for success.

The priest says: "The young boys in this neighborhood are growing into better men, I believe, because the church takes an interest in them. I have their respect because I can thrash any of them. When fighting is no longer necessary I will do no more fighting."

The New York priest of the water-front has learned one of the most important arts in the bringing of men into clean living. He has learned the lesson of adaptability to conditions as they are, not as they ought to be. Even if his sailors become good from habit it is better than not being good at all.

Just what the Washington government will do is yet a matter of speculation among the high officials, but the trend of events, they say, is unmistakably toward conducting negotiations in some form or another with the Constitutionalists.

The policy of the United States has been to make complete record of having attempted to handle the problem by peaceful means. Up to the present, parieys have been carried on with the brought to bear upon the president and Secretary Bryan to give the Constitutionalists an opportunity by recognizing their belligerency to compose the situation through the support

Called In Murder Case.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 17 .- Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, on trial for the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, U. S. N., retired, heard her 16-year-old daughter, Dorothy Virginia Ainsworth, support the contention of the prosecution that she was unreasonably jealous towards her husband. Under the questioning of District Attorney Barker, Dorothy tesgered and had continual hallucinations that the admiral was trying to poison the family. Dorothy, an attractive girl, spent several hours on the witness stand.

An indication of the probable line of defense was given in the cross-examination of Medical Examiner Gilman T. Osgood. Questions were aimed to bring out the possibility that Admiral Eaton might have partaken of the poison in connection with a drug

California Alien Land Controversy Finally Abandoned.

FOUND DISCUSSION USELESS

Mikado Suggests New Agreement It. Which His Subjects Resident In the United States Shall Be Guaranteed Right to Own Land In This Country-Completion of Canal Has Moral

Washington, Oct. 17 .- Argumentative discussion of the California alien And law controversy has been practically abandoned by the governments ng not very high above him. Jack of Japan and the United States. The understanding, according to intimations in official quarters, is that both governments have concluded that it is useless for them to argue the matter further on the basis of interpretation of the provisions of the American-Japanese treaty of 1911, on which the Japanese based their protest against the California act aimed to prevent Japanese from owning farm lands in that state.

The discussion will henceforth center upon the Japanese proposal of a new treaty, in which their subjects resident in the United States shall be guaranteed the right of owning land in this country.

The direct issue raised by Japan in her request for a settlement by means of a new treaty has thus far been avoided by this government. The negotiation of such a treaty would in effect invalidate the California law, and California and other senators never would consent to this. On the other hand, a direct refusal would be most irritating to Japan and embarrassing to this government. Japan is now awaiting a reply to the note last delivered by Ambassador Chinda.

The completion of the Panama canal, while an argument not officially mentioned for publication, is a great underlying factor in view of what it means to the improvement of the naval situation of the United States in the Pacific ocean. Another development which Washington is watching with interest is the anti-Japanese movement in British Columbia. The provincial government has gone so far , as to take the matter up with the imperial British government and has served notice that the citizens of British Columbia do not intend to permit encroachments by the Japanese. In view of Great Britain's influence with ! Japan, owing to their treaty of alliance, it is believed the situation in western Canada may have much effect on the present controversy between the United States and Japan.

California Alien Land Controversy Finally Abandoned.

DISCUSSION USELESS

Which His Subjects Resident In the United States Shall Be Guaranteed Right to Own Land In This Country-Completion of Canal Has Moral

Washington, Oct. 17 .- Argumentative discussion of the California alien and law controversy has been practically abandoned by the governments ing not very high above him. Jack of Japan and the United States. The understanding, according to intimations in official quarters, is that both governments have concluded that it is useless for them to argue the matter further on the basis of interpretation of the provisions of the American-Japanese treaty of 1911, on which the Japanese based their protest against the California act aimed to prevent Japanese from owning farm lands in that state.

The discussion will henceforth center upon the Japanese proposal of a new treaty, in which their subjects resident in the United States shall be guaranteed the right of owning land in this country.

The direct issue raised by Japan in her request for a settlement by means of a new treaty has thus far been avoided by this government. The neeffect invalidate the California law, and California and other senators never would consent to this. On the other hand, a direct refusal would be most irritating to Japan and embarrassing to this government. Japan is now awaiting a reply to the note last delivered by Ambassador Chinda.

The completion of the Panama canal, while an argument not officially mentioned for publication, is a great underlying factor in view of what it means to the improvement of the naval situation of the United States in the Pacific ocean. Another development which Washington is watching with interest is the anti-Japanese movement in British Columbia. The provincial government has gone so far as to take the matter up with the imperial British government and has served notice that the citizens of British Columbia do not intend to permit encroachments by the Japanese. In view of Great Britain's influence with Japan, owing to their treaty of alliance, it is believed the situation in western Canada may have much effect on the present controversy between the United States and Japan.
